

HAS MONT PELEE EXPLODED AGAIN?

Heavy Detonations Heard at
Isle of St. Thomas.

GREATER THAN ON MAY 8.

TWO DARING MEN EXPLORE THE FIERY CRATER.

Crescent Shape and 1170 Feet in Circumference—St. Pierre Will Not Be Rebuilt—Child's Story of the Disaster.

ST. THOMAS, D. W. I., May 20.—At 6 o'clock this morning heavy detonations were heard from the southeast, the direction in which Martinique lies, surpassing those of May 8, the day Mont Pelee exploded and destroyed St. Pierre.

It is feared that another violent eruption has taken place.

By a Staff Correspondent of the New York World and St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

(Copyright, 1902, by the Press Publishing Co.)—DOMINICA, B. W. I., May 20.

Mayor Ferdinand Clero, the man who witnessed the destruction of St. Pierre from the doomed city with his family only an hour before it was destroyed, succeeded Saturday in reaching the mouth of the crater on Mont Pelee.

Engineer de Chancel accompanied him with scientific instruments.

They returned safely from their perilous trip and M. Clero told me that the crater is on the windward side of the island nearest St. Pierre.

It is crescent shaped and measures 1170 feet, or about a quarter of a mile, in circumference.

The lake at the mouth of the crater has disappeared.

They saw no lava, but small fissures were emitting vapor 1500 feet below the crater.

Upon reaching the top the two men were thrown from their horses by an electrical shock, but persisted in their investigations of the crater.

Reports from the interior of the island say that a severe earthquake shock Saturday night drove people to the town of Pressiere and two other small villages lying to the northeast of St. Pierre.

St. Pierre will never be inhabited again. No attempt will be made to reclaim or rebuild what was less than two weeks ago the most beautiful and picturesque city in the West Indies.

A heavy rainstorm this morning over Martinique cleaned the hills and valleys adjoining St. Pierre.

As the Longfellow steamed by on the way to Dominica I saw that the rain had washed the yellow volcanic dust from the trees, bringing out the rich green foliage and the beautiful colors of the millions of orchids.

Great clouds of smoke were hanging over the city, but they were caused by the first serious efforts made by the French government to save the bodies of the thousands of victims still remaining uncared for among the ruins.

CHILD'S STORY OF DISASTER.

In the city hospital at Port de France I saw eight survivors of the Mont Pelee disaster—those who were rescued from the Roraima. Among them was the little 9-year-old Brooklyn girl, Margaret Stokes.

She presented a most pathetic figure. The child was terribly burned. The end of her nose is burned off and her face is disfigured. Both arms, too, are fearfully burned.

The lacerated wounds were being dressed when I called to see her. She is greatly distressed over the loss of her parents. She is all alone in the world now.

"I lived at 369 Twelfth street, Brooklyn, with mamma," little Margaret said to me. "We came away from there in the ship and were going to Barbadoes, where mamma was born."

"On the morning of the awful fire of the volcano we were at breakfast on the Roraima when something knocked us out of our seats."

"I caught hold of mamma's dress and she took me in her arms and carried me out on deck. Fire was falling all around us, and mamma tried hard to keep the fire from falling on me. She fell down and then some men picked her up and carried her away."

"Miss King, my nurse, held me, while the men fought the fire and tried to keep the ship from burning up. Then a big boat came, and we were taken off."

"I don't want to die. I hope I am not going to die. But, O, I want my mamma—I want my mamma."

The only friend the child has now is the nurse, Miss King, of Barbadoes. Miss King is a quadroon, but is a very capable woman. She does not know what to do with little Margaret.

The doctors say the little girl will recover.

The government officials at Washington should send instructions forthwith for the protection of this little American child.

The nurse, too, who so bravely protected her little charge, was very badly burned.

I saw some really terrifying sights in the military hospitals at Port de France. Several men were literally burned to pieces, but were still living. The whole side of the face of one man was gone, but his sight was still preserved.

FRIENDS KIDNAP THEM THIS TIME

Greene and Gaynor Taken
From the Montreal Jail.

THEY ARE BACK IN QUEBEC.

SPECIAL TRAIN AND HABEAS CORPUS WIT FREED THEM.

Montreal Authorities Made a Diligent
Effort to Prevent Execution of Scheme, but Arrived on Scene Too Late.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MONTREAL, May 20.—John F. Gaynor and Benjamin D. Greene were kidnaped again last night, this time by the defense.

Judge Lafontaine decided to send them to the trial at Quebec, where they were to be tried for the murder of a Canadian.

Immediately the wires were set to work and the Quebec advocates for the defense ordered that an application for a new habeas corpus be served on the jail here.

A special train was immediately ordered in Quebec. This was supplied by the Canadian Pacific with a relay of three engines.

It brought High Constable Gale of Quebec and 20 officers of the Provincial police.

They made the run to Montreal in about four hours and a half, and on their arrival here drove at breakneck speed to the jail and served the writ.

Friends of the prisoners, who were aware of what was going to happen, were at the station.

Chief Detective Carpenter of Montreal and Daniel MacMaster, King's counsel, who engineered for the United States authorities the kidnaping from Quebec, arrived on board a train for Quebec to answer the writ of habeas corpus which they eluded for so long.

Before they were well in the station the special from Quebec, carrying Gaynor and Greene, pulled out.

Both men looked supremely happy, and waved a smiling farewell to their friends. This is second blood for the defense, but it is not by any means the finish of the fight.

It is intimated that the United States authorities may swear out a warrant upon another charge, and that the right of Judge Andrews to issue the writ of habeas corpus may be questioned, and may even be carried to the Privy Council at the foot of the throne.

It is said there will be bonfires in Quebec to celebrate the return of the prisoners.

The customs authorities at Quebec seized the tug Spray, which had conveyed Gaynor and Greene to Montreal Thursday, for illegally carrying passengers.

FUN WITH THE BRIDEGROOM
Mr. Kearns and His Blushing Bride the Victims of Their Friends—Young Husband Says They Didn't Elope.

"Just Married." "What Is Life Without a Wife." "En Route to Waterloo," and similar placards adorned the trunks of Patrick Kearns and his bride, who was Miss Katie Dineen, as they left Union Station bound for Waterloo, 10, Tuesday morning.

"We didn't elope or do anything like that," explained Mr. Kearns to a friend. "We just decided to marry and went about it in the regular way."

And while the groom was entering into all these manifest apologies a young man pinned a tag to his coat-tails. It read: "How would you like to be the loeman."

Mr. Kearns didn't notice the sign and it dropped off before he passed through the gate.

Mrs. Kearns lived at 5607 Wells avenue. She is a pretty and talented young woman. Both she and Mr. Kearns have been acquainted for some time.

The young woman wore her bridal robes at Union Station Tuesday morning and in the words of Ben Brown, the train caller, "she was the cynosure of all eyes."

DEPRIVED OF POWER TO SING
John A. Peck Sues the Transit Company for $30,000 on Account of Wife's Injury.

Because he is deprived of his wife's society, and because she is unable to sing now as she was once wont to do, John A. Peck of 3514 Lawton avenue brought suit for $30,000 against the transit company on the ground that his wife, Lizzie Peck, received injuries which brought about these changes while she was riding on one of the defendant company's cars.

The accident is alleged to have occurred in November, 1899, and is said to have been caused by the conductor on a Grand avenue car who disregarded Mrs. Peck's signal to stop the car at Lacade avenue.

Mrs. Peck attempted to leave the car while the same was in motion and she fell to the ground sustaining severe injuries. She has been confined to the home most of the time since the accident.

Mrs. Jane Coulter Dead.—Mrs. Jane B. Coulter, one of the oldest residents of St. Louis County, fell dead Monday while walking in the garden at the home of her son, Horace B. Coulter, of Ferguson, where she made her home. The body was found by a member of the family shortly after Mrs. Coulter had expired. Mrs. Coulter was 83 years old.

Insane Patient Died of Shock.—Adelaide Prince, 33 years old, an inmate of the Insane Asylum, died at that institution from the result of shock following an accident last Saturday night. She had been an inmate for several years and that night she arose while the other occupants were asleep and fell against the door. In her aged and enfeebled condition her system was unable to stand the shock.

To Cure Drunkards.

A Simple Way to Cure Any Drunkard Against His Will.

By using the new and latest remedy, which is placed in the coffee or food, any drunkard can be cured. Anyone can do it without the drunkard knowing it. It does its work so quickly and surely that the drunkard, while the devoted wife, sister, daughter or mother looks on, the drunkard is cured even against his will.

Every person who has a loved one who is a slave to drink ought to give them this remedy at once.

Mrs. Samuel Boyd says: "With Golden Specific I cured my husband of drinking. I put it in his coffee and after that he could not drink liquor or beer without being cured even against his will."

Write to Dr. J. W. Haines, 3371 Glen Building, Cincinnati, Ohio, and he will send you a free trial package which will show you how simple it is to cure. For the Golden Specific see for sale in St. Louis by Wolff-Willson Drug Co., Sixth and Washington st.

Not Guilty of Cattle Stealing.

MEXICO, Mo., May 20.—The jury in the case of Thomas Jones, the prominent stockman of near this city, charged with stealing cattle, returned a verdict of not guilty after being out an hour. It took more than a week to try the case, and on account of the prominence of the parties, it attracted wide attention.

WHAT A DIFFERENCE

It makes when St. Louis residents testify.

It is pretty hard to prove the statement of some strangers residing in far-away parts of the country, but the testimony of a St. Louis citizen, that follows, should convince the most skeptical.

Louis Keger, cigars and tobacco, 3819 Easton avenue, says: "Before I went to the Wolf-Willson Drug Co. for Doan's Kidney Pills I had a severe pain in my back just over the kidneys. I knew those organs were at fault, for I had had attacks similar to the one mentioned for at least four years. The slightest cold always settled in the loins and I was often unable to attend to my business. Things are different now. The use of Doan's Kidney Pills has absolutely stopped the aching."

For sale by all dealers; price, 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no substitute.

THE PEOPLE'S POPULAR "WANT" ADVERTISEMENTS
Printed During the Month of

April—in the POST-DISPATCH 35,983
In the Globe-Democrat—27,393

The Post-Dispatch is the great want medium because it is the great home paper.

The Philippine topic should be taboed while Rochambeau and Lafayette are with us.

Men abide near a volcano and then reason that God permits the calamity that comes to them. It is much the same in their way of living.

The Texas tornado wrapped cattle and horses around trees. The meat trust may make use of this to further prove the scarcity of "beef criteria."

Over in East St. Louis also there has been a great increase of postoffice business. The growth of both the eastern and western St. Louis is remarkable.

MISSOURI'S BATTLESHIP GIFT.

Having investigated the subject thoroughly, the St. Louis Artists' Guild has come to the conclusion that the best form of memorial which Missourians can give to the battleship Missouri is a ship's bell.

The reasons for this decision seem satisfactory. Until a few years ago the conventional gifts were punch bowls and silver services, but of late there has been a change. As ex-Secretary Long pointed out in his letter, the movable articles of the tabernacle must be kept under lock and key and benefits only the officers. Admiral Bowles, chief of the construction bureau, advised strongly against such a gift and his opinion was supported by the naval officers in his department. It is generally recognized that the silver service, punch bowl or other table article or decoration is a gift to the officers' messroom rather than to the battleship; the men never use or see it. Something attached to the ship and intimately connected with the life of the officers and men is the condition suggested by the navy department.

The ship's bell meets this condition. It marks the division of hours and the duties of the men. It can be designed and constructed in the highest form of art, with work in relief showing the purpose and the source of the memorial.

Missouri should give a handsome memorial to the battleship bearing her name. A beautiful, sweet-scented bell would be useful, ornamental and appropriate. It would frequently remind the officers and crew of the great state of Missouri.

The cost of a handsome bell would not exceed $500. It is to be hoped that Gov. Dockery, following his original intention, will name a strong committee to take the matter in hand and carry it to success. Perhaps the legislature could appropriate sufficient to make the gift. That would mark it as a gift from the whole state.

Senator Hanna confesses sympathy with the work of the Salvation Army. It is surprising how sympathetic men grow when the beat begins to hum.

AN UNHAPPY KING.

Alfonso XIII, who last Saturday became king in fact as well as in name, assumes responsibilities which might well lay a trained master of statecraft with dismay.

Spain, once a world-wide empire which gave the law to Christendom, is today of no more account as a national force than Belgium and not so influential as Holland. Bereft of all her dominions beyond the sea, the monarchy of Charles V is shut up within her ancient boundaries and even there is the victim of faction, lethargy, ignorance and other symptoms of degeneracy and decay.

Alfonso will have all he can do to revive the dying energies of his people and infuse them with the spirit of progress. It is fortunate for him, perhaps, that Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines were lost to him during his minority. For years the colonies had been a heavy expense and their government a perpetual vexation. He can at least devote his entire attention to the domestic difficulties which need all his powers. If he makes head against the forces of revolution and decay he will deserve a high rank among capable rulers.

Much will depend upon his personal force and intelligence. If he is strong and self-reliant, he will be able to exercise a positive influence similar to that which Queen Victoria exercised in Great Britain. If, on the other hand, he is feeble and dull, authority will fall to his cabinet, and Spain is not prolific of capable ministers.

The prospect is not rosy. Like Wilhelmina of Holland, Alfonso is a creature of fate. Whether he will ever be anything more than a king and events can tell.

It may be well enough to let Cuba stand upon the same tariff basis as other nations in dealing with us, but what about our promises? Have we lost all sense of honor?

THE TAMING OF AN AUTOCAR.

A Moscow dentist locked his cook in a room and forcibly extracted two of her teeth, because she had angered him by burning a roast. Not that roasts are higher in Russia than they are here—because the influence of the Beef Trust has not penetrated that far, as yet—but because any man, unless he were a saint (or a vegetarian) would be angered at having his meat placed upon the table with a black and bitter crust upon it. But the servant, retaining her self-possession (if not her teeth), appealed to the authorities and caused her employer to be arrested. Now he is in imminent danger of spending two years in prison.

However, this incident is valuable in showing that at least one man has the courage of his convictions. The servant girl question has long been a knotty one, particularly here at home. How to manage this autocar of the breakfast, dinner and supper table has been a source of incalculable worry to heads of households. The Moscow dentist points the way to a solution of this running problem. The only way to subdue a girl who insists on running things with a high hand is to make a pretense of spoiling her beauty. Once make that threat good and victory is yours; fall, and it is another case of "chains and slavery."

With President Roosevelt and Gov. Yates together at the Illinois state fair, the public will have an opportunity to think how they would look on a presidential ticket.

FREDERICK THE GREAT.

Emperor William of Germany proposes to present a copy of the famous Berlin statue of Frederick the Great to the United States.

The American people will appreciate the gift, for Frederick the Great was the first monarch in Europe to realize the importance to the world of the American revolution and foresee the destiny of the new republic.

Frederick did not, like the French king, come to our aid with fleet and army. He had "troubles of his own" which prevented active assistance had he been disposed to take up arms, but on several occasions he showed his friendship in very plain fashion.

When the British king sent agents into Hesse and other German principalities, where they bought soldiers like so many cattle and shipped them off to America, Frederick expressed the disgust to no purpose, and refused to allow the Hessians troops to march through his dominions to the sea. On other occasions he facilitated the purchase of arms and ammunition in Prussia, destined for the patriots who were so bravely fighting the American cause. He never concealed his sympathy for the Americans but was restrained by fear of British resentment, which he could not afford to incur.

After the war the envoys sent abroad to negotiate treaties of commerce met with scant courtesy in most European courts. The opinion prevailed that the thirteen colonies would not hold together and foreign ministers were not disposed to enter into treaty relations with a power which seemed to have such a feeble national existence. But Frederick had more faith. He encouraged the envoys to persevere and it is to his lasting credit as a far-seeing statesman that he alone accepted such a treaty and established commercial relations with the young republic.

Frederick was a man of penetrating vision. He saw through the shams of royal government and openly confessed that a republic founded upon the sovereign will of the people had great advantages over a hereditary monarchy in which a genius might be followed by a fool, a statesman by an incapable dreamer. Frederick will live in the affections of Americans. He believed in their cause when other friends doubted and hesitated. And it is gratifying that his great successor desires to keep alive the tradition of amity.

The Post-Dispatch has received several communications asking whether or not it will raise a fund for the distribution of free ice among the sick and destitute this summer. Whenever the need arises for free ice during the hot season, the Post-Dispatch will gladly undertake the work. Last year the sufferings of thousands of poor and sick persons were relieved by the free ice distribution and the lives of many were saved. There is a balance left over from last year's fund and the Post-Dispatch feels sure that the prosperous people of the city will supply all the additional funds necessary when the conditions call for relief work.

THE FREE BATHS PLAN.

Harbor Commissioner Whyte's idea of using the surplus funds to the credit of his department for the construction of three public floating bath-houses on the river front is an excellent one. Mr. Whyte is not sure of the legality of this use of the money, but will submit the plan to Mayor Wells, who can, through the city council, determine this point.

The surplus now amounts to $52,000 and will probably reach nearly $100,000 within a few months. Certainly no better use could be found for the money, and the suggestion reflects credit upon Mr. Whyte. If Mayor Wells finds it possible to devote a part of this sum to equipping public baths, it is not probable that he will withhold favorable action. The baths will fill a long-felt want in the downtown district.

President Phillips of the Board of Public Improvements has proved his interest in the public-bath movement and holds out a promise of at least one bath house, to be provided for in the general appropriation bill in July.

But the surplus in the harbor department offers the best opportunity for quick results—results in time to permit the people to reap the benefits this summer.

The Wells administration could not achieve a better memorial of good work than by the construction of free public bathhouses on the river.

If Emperor William has another copy of the great statue of Frederick to spare, he should send it to the World's Fair grounds.

HASTEN THE NEW FENDERS AND BRAKES.

Cars equipped with ineffective fenders and brakes continue to run over, mangle and kill children and old people in St. Louis. The latest victim is a 4-year-old girl, Lena Lakare, whose skull was fractured and legs broken by a Springfield car Sunday evening.

Under the new fender and brake laws, most of the fenders and all the hand brakes now used on the street cars are illegal, as well as ineffective. They will have to be retained until the new designs can be made and placed on the cars. But until the new laws have been carried into effect, the killing and maiming will continue.

If the Board of Public Improvements will bear this in mind, it will do everything in its power to hasten the equipment of all cars with effective fenders and brakes. Loss of time, in this case, means loss of life.

Mr. Balfour speaks of the expression, "United States government have," as our way of using our language. But not many of us say the government "have." Some of us say "United States are," and others say "United States is," and we are likely to continue to do so. There should be no quarrel over the matter. Let us emulate the president who in Congress who, to meet the different pronouncements of Arkansas always addressed the statesmen as "the gentleman from Arkansas" and "the gentleman from Arkansas."

By the delay of Congress in passing legislation it is thought the Sugar Trust will make from $500,000 to $10,000,000 profit. The planters need money so much that they cannot hold their crops. We can do the Cubans at the same time that we are doing the Filipinos.

Mayor Reed of Kansas City has a plan for municipal ownership which would not permit the city to vote. What a queer notion of feelings the old employees would have while they were getting used to that part of the reform!

If in 125 years the United States have become wealthier than Great Britain, Germany, France or Russia, what shall be our wealth at the end of the century? And are we to decay with our marvelous increase of wealth?

Gen. Chaffee reports that peace is now assured in Mindanao and that our troops in the island are to be reinforced. The peace that requires reinforcements is certainly a peace that passes all understanding.

The hardwood lumbermen are asking why a carload of lumber should be charged 75 cents freight when a carload of grain is carried at 20 cents. Perhaps the railroads making these rates think they need the 17 cents.

Mr. Chamberlain doesn't mind the expenditure of $10,000,000 or more for a needless war, but there is bound to be some robbing from the British taxpayer, who has frequent pessimistic moods.

Were a New England state to decline to take part in the World's Fair we should soon begin to hear of the decline of New England.

POST-DISPATCH SNAP SHOTS.

The sand is not in the sugar; it is in the spinach. Society women in Washington are to carry canes. But these are not so dangerous as parasols.

With Uncle Mark Hanna sympathizing with Salvation Army work and asking great labor problems every week, he cannot be too busy with growing.

The best of feeling toward Americans is said to be shown by the Spaniards in the Philippines. No doubt they heartily approve all our Jake Smithing.

A tornado had never been known in the Goliad section of Texas until last Sunday. There seems to be no place in which cyclone calamity may not come day be useful.

Sculptor Uphues cannot expect us all to get his name right when we talk about the Frederick statue. He ought to stop sculpting long enough to reconstruct it.

The tanning of 500 human skins annually in Chicago, to be made into shoes and pocketbooks, will doubtless interest the benighted islanders who have come to us with our new tropical possessions.

The opinion of a clergyman that the earthquakes are the death throes of Satan is encouraging. It is to be regretted, however, that the old rebel has been so long dying. Earthquakes have been known for thousands of years.

While St. Louisans were complaining of unusual May heat on Sunday, other places were being swept by destructive winds or flooded by cloudbursts. Let us always wait to hear from our neighbors before we complain of weather conditions.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

HEATRICE BRENT—Go to the public library. WM. MOORE—The Supreme Court will pass upon the question. L. J. G. Edwardsville—There is no premium on the coins you describe. W. A. ROBERTS—You can sell the stock to anybody without the help of a broker.

W. A. ROBERTS—Yes, medicine is a science, according to the tradition of some 20 centuries. If it not very exact, however, CONSTANT READER—Read the story in the New Testament. Evans appeared on the day of his resurrection on the road to Emmaus. His ascension occurred 40 days after.

W. C. LANDON—The Prince of Wales visited Canada in 1901. His title at that time was Duke of Cornwall. He was created Prince of Wales after his return to England. BERTHOLD MARSH—The Jewish Gazette, New York (2) There is no premium on the coins you describe. (3) He told you your "mule" like a war-horse? Did he? It was a compliment, I assure you.

Just a Minute WITH THE POST-DISPATCH DOCT AND PHILOSOPHER

THREE QUEENS.

Three queens were my delight.
One was a blonde, and one brunette,
And the other a tresser.
I cannot quite determine yet
Which one I cherished most of all,
Or whose caresses
Could most enthral—
The plump, the luscious or the tall.
My soul confesses
A maddening desire for each.
The rose, the lily and the peach.
It may be I will never reach
A firm conclusion.
Or straighten out this cardiac confusion.
I only know,
And tell you so,
Three queens were my delight.

Three queens were my undoing.
Two little blondes and one brunette,
Decidedly alluring.
O, well, I remember yet
How they were welcomed, one and all,
Their looks alluring.
Me of a "call"
From other men who played 'em tall.
Big pots securing!
I held them in my lazeboard hand,
That lovely bunch of women, and
Decided, thereupon, to stand
A few more raises.
And so I did; but holy smoke and blazes!
They were n. e.

Three queens were my undoing.
"Mizoura."

Why will some newspapers persist in calling this grand old state "Mizoura?" Why should they foul their own nest? Do we not boast of the fact that this is Imperial Missouri, and publish proudly to the world the number of medals she carries away at the various expositions? When did Missouri ever fail to win a prize? When was she ever defeated when a great public duty was to be performed? What has she ever done that she should be slighted by a nickname? Do Iowans call their state "Iowa"? Do Kentuckians refer to their native hearth as "Kentuck"? Does the Arkansas call it "Rackensack"? Do the inhabitants of other states habitually, persistently and willfully mispronounce the names they proudly bear? On the contrary, do they not always esteem them, that their days may be long in the land?

Why "Mizoura?"

Ex-Chief Tobasco, a New Mexican Indian, was killed by a member of his tribe. Tobasco must have got saucy.

Women who bet are better than some who never bet; yet the woman who never bets is no better.

Trust Prices.
The taste was just immense—
Between two little slabs of bread.
It cost her fifty cents.

When we have thoroughly learned how to loop the loop, we may be able to dodge the deadly fender.

Soon it will be Dr. Mark Twain, and then he can examine the eyes of these detractors who see in him only "a clown grown tiresome and repulsive."

Her Idea.
"Reformers may denounce tight lacing as they will," said the airy Ethel Summers, with another tug at the strings, "but as far as I am concerned I would rather be a stayed young maiden than a staid old one."

Allice Roosevelt has set the style, which the girls of Washington are following, of carrying a small cane while out walking, and now the staid old ladies are taking a rap at her.

Three-year-old Norman Weeden of Alameda, Cal., who "spells instantly and correctly any word that is put to him," will never make a success either as a stenographer, a sign painter or a pen-and-ink artist.

MAKING BASEBALLS.
The process of making baseballs on a wholesale plan is a rather interesting one, consuming in a single season something like 8000 skins. The scrapings from the shoe factories, of which the "raw" balls are made, are stored in cellars of about one acre area, and from this material the balls are shaped by hand.

According to quality, the ball is bound by a few or several dozen rounds of the raw leather, which are placed in automatic moulds, shaping the ball, and at the same time pressing out all moisture, to the tune of three hundred grains a day. One employee will shape as many as 400 of these raw balls in a single working day, says the Commercial Tribune.

The newly pressed balls are then sorted and allowed to dry out for a period of from three to four weeks, when their weight is reduced to perhaps five ounces. Something like two hundred of these twine-coated leather balls can be found in the bins at all times.

In the meantime the skin covers for the balls have been seasoned and dressed on the floor below, and as a last stage in the process, rubbed back and forth against an upright blade, to take out all kinks in the skins by hand and sewn around the balls by women. Each woman is expected to finish about a dozen balls daily. From every skin from fifteen to thirty pairs of covers are obtained.

All in all, it takes about six weeks to turn out a baseball, and the prices of the product will vary from 3 cents to $1.25. The largest sales are of the 5-cent balls.

"THE LADY OR THE TIGER?"

Once, referring to "The Lady or the Tiger?" the late Frank R. Stockton told an interviewer: "I cannot answer the question, for I have no earthly idea myself. I really have never been able to decide whether the lady or the tiger came out of that door. Yet I must defend myself. People for years have upbraided me for leaving it a mystery, some used to write me that I had no right to tamper upon the good nature of the public in that manner. However, when I started in to write that story I really intended to finish it. But it would have been finished, I could not tell you, and in this day I have, I assure you, no more idea than anyone else."

MAN AND THE ELEMENTS.
(Suggested by the recent accounts of floods, fires, storms and earthquakes.)
Are they man's friends,
Earth, Water, Fire and Air?
That in this life of ours
Bring beauty, then despair?

The Fire
Devours our toilsome, labor-won accumulations,
Our cities and our humble habitations—
The Flood wild-sweeping and submerging
Our crops and lands in savage tidal surging.
The Earth
Engulfs in strange seismic shaking
Our homes and hopes in devastating quaking—
The Air
Shatters with gales tempestuous-rending,
Our ships and shops to swift destruction sending.

And yet
The Fire performs our will obediently
When bidden:
The Water feeds the fields that fructify
The Earth yields food and treasures hidden:
The Air gives us the very breath of life—
Resentful in "The Modern View."

Use any sort of bowl or dish for mixing so it is clean and large enough to stir with out slopping. Cream sugar and batter together with a spoon or the hands until it is smooth. Beat eggs thoroughly before adding, either yolks and whites separate or together. I can see no difference in result either way. One teaspoon of baking powder or one of cream of tartar and one-half of soda is enough for an ordinary size sheet of cake (one cup of sugar, one-half of butter, two or three eggs). Sift flour two or three times for fine grained cake and add a little at a time when mixing. If baking powder is used, when the flour is added, add salt and mix with it. If cream of tartar and soda is used, add a cup of tartar to the flour, stir soda in milk or water, whichever is used. Use baking powder when using sweet milk always. Use cream of tartar and soda together with sweet milk or cold water. Use soda with sour milk.

Mixing the Cake.
If cake calls for sweet milk and molasses, one can use soda alone, as the molasses causes the soda to rise, which it would not do if sweet milk and sugar were used. One rounded teaspoon of baking powder or one level teaspoon of cream of tartar and one level teaspoon of soda are equal. Always use just half the amount of soda as of cream of tartar, viz.: one of cream of tartar, one-half of soda. Use soda in hot or cold water, sour milk or molasses, cream of tartar in sweet milk or with water (cold). Use baking powder with sweet milk or cold water.

In mixing cake, cream, butter and sugar, add eggs, then milk, then flour and raising agent. If molasses is used, add before the flour, rub currants, raisins, citron, etc., in flour and add last thing; add flavoring last also. Always use a pinch of salt (about one-half teaspoon). Use either pastry or bread flour. If pastry is used take very large measure; if bread flour, level measure.

Plain Cake.
One cup sugar, 1/2 cup sweet milk, 1/4 cup (4) flour, 1/4 cup soda powder or a teaspoon cream tartar and 1/4 soda (saleratus). One cup sugar, 1/2 cup butter, pinch salt, yolks of three eggs, 1/4 cup flour, 1 teaspoonful of baking powder, 1/4 cup cold water added slowly to the last, 1 teaspoonful vanilla. Silver cake the same, except use three whites of eggs and not quite as large measure of flour, as whites of eggs make a dry cake, and yolks a moist one. Flavor with 1 teaspoon lemon.

Chocolate Cake.
One cup sugar, 1/2 butter (scant), two eggs, pinch salt, 1/4 cup flour, teaspoon baking powder, 1/4 cup milk, 2 squares chocolate or 1/2 cup cocoa.

Ribbon Cake.
Same as plain; take 1-1 of the mixture, add 1 tablespoon molasses; 1/4 cup currants, 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon, cloves and allspice, bake 2 sheets plain, 3 sliced, and put together with jelly or icing.

Fruit Cake.
One cup butter, 1 sugar, 2 eggs, pinch salt, 1 cup molasses, 3 cups flour, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon every kind spice, 1 cup raisins, 1/4 currants, 1/4 cup chopped nuts; bake 2 hours, very slowly.

Dream Sponge.
Beat 2 or 3 eggs light, add scant tumbler sugar, beat hard, pinch salt and tablespoon lemon peel, grated, 1 level tumbler pastry flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, beat 5 minutes, add 4 tablespoons cold water and 1 of lemon juice.

Varying the Plain.
The plain cake can be varied by using one-half cup coconut, or raisins, or currants, or nuts, or nuts, or nuts and raisins, or put together with fig filling, or icing, or custard etc., and get endless variety.

Baking.
Bake all sugar cakes in moderate oven from 20 to 30 minutes. Molasses and chocolate not quite so fast, as they burn easily. Sponge 20 or 30 minutes. Test cakes with wire of broom or toothpick. If it comes out clear it is done.

PUZZLES AND THEIR SOLUTION

That Bug Problem Again.
Figure 1 represents the room. The bug is to travel by the shortest possible route from A to B. This problem was submitted by C. W. Shedd some time ago, and others were sent in by biologists and others were not correct. The shortest route is not a diagonal, as travel from A to B by the shortest possible route the bug must either take a diagonal, or around the side and end wall, as in Figure II, or across the floor and up the end wall, as in Figure III. It appears at sight that the distance in Figure III is the shortest, but for those who cannot see it the following will demonstrate:

Figure I
Figure III

The line AB in Figure II is the hypotenuse of a right triangle, whose base is 10 and perpendicular 20. Its length is $\sqrt{10^2 + 20^2} = \sqrt{100 + 400} = \sqrt{500} = 22.36$ (approx). The line AB in Figure III is the hypotenuse of a right triangle, whose base is 20 and perpendicular 10. Its length is $\sqrt{20^2 + 10^2} = \sqrt{400 + 100} = \sqrt{500} = 22.36$ (approx). The distance from A to B in Figure I, therefore, is 22.36, the shortest possible distance the bug can travel from A to B. Give us some more as good as this one.

Five Conundrums.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
Enclosed please find five conundrums, which I hope you will publish.
1. Why do old men wear mittens?
2. Why is a horse half way through a gateway like a cent?
3. Why is a house full of married ladies like an empty room?
4. What grows the less tired the more it works?
5. I also enclose an enigma, which is as follows:
Five hundred begins it, five hundreds ends it.
Five in the middle is seen,
The first of all letters, the first of all figures.

Writing-Want Ads.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
It would be a godsend to hundreds of boys, girls, young men and young women who are daily looking for work, if those who want help and use advertising columns to get it would make their ads a little more informing. I have a son who is looking for work. Every day he sends a number of advertisements which do not tell what kind of work, what pay, or even precisely where the place is situated. Many ads simply say "Boy Wanted." This carelessness or sloppiness results in boys who can ill afford to waste time and car fare going down town day after day, only to find the work or the place unsuitable. It must also result in loss to employers, as they would get help who are not of a better quality by writing their ads properly. It is a great service to lead a person seeking employment, by a wrongly worded or poorly written advertisement.

Punctuation Question.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
Will you please publish the following? To settle an argument, will some scholar of English please punctuate over his signature the following sentence:
"We are in receipt of your letter of the 15th instant and note carefully all that you say."
"We are in receipt of your letter of the 15th inst. and note carefully all that you say."

Do Not Despair.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
To the one who signed herself "Dinah," I would advise you not to give up, as every cloud has a silver lining, and it is always darkest just before day. Yes, I have had my share of trouble so far. I had money, but listened to the advice of others and invested it and lost it. I was so sure I had made myself, as I never met with the good fortune to fall heir to anything. I have met with success and still expect to succeed, although it will take some time. I do not despair. I am a girl, and I am capable of caring for myself if only given a chance. There is no use to look for sympathy, as the people will not believe in me. I know that I will find work yet, but how long I will have to wait I can't tell. I would advise "Dinah" not to give up, as something will turn up for the best when you least expect it. It takes energy and endurance.
With best wishes for your success,
St. Louis. TENN.

Bookeries Around Union Station.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
I would like to ask a few questions about St. Louis.
First, how are we going to brag on our city to World's Fair visitors if that row of bookeries between Market and Chestnut and Eighteenth streets and Jefferson and Olive still standing when the Fair opens just in front of the main entrance to the city?
Second, what has become of the bookeries that were to be built on the corner to make a park out of part of this ground?
Third, why not build a new postoffice on part of this ground?
Fourth, why not build the new Public Library on part of this ground?
Fifth, why not build anything on it that will not be a discredit to the city?
St. Louis. FURBER.

Poem Wanted.

A year or so ago there appeared either in the Metropolitan or the Prudential Paper a poem, the first verse of which ran like this:

No Respector of Rank.

Disease Lays Its Heavy Hand on Kings, Princes, Presidents, the Noble and Wealthy, as Well as Those of Low Estate.

Paine's Celery Compound
 Is the Great Restorer of Health for the Ruler and His Humblest Subject.

Sickness, disease and suffering respect neither ruler nor subject. During the high born have their trials and physical sufferings like those in humbler stations. Social standing and wealth cannot bar the progress of disease when the common rules of health are violated.

Impure blood and weak nerves are responsible for many of the common diseases of life. The experienced physician will tell you that men and women with pure, clear coursing blood and well braced nerves, can never become victims of rheumatism, neuralgia, liver troubles, debility, headaches or sleeplessness.

It follows, therefore that sufferers from any of the ailments referred to should at once take proper measures to cleanse the blood and feed the weak nervous system with pure, nourishing food.

For the happy accomplishment of this important work, Paine's Celery Compound is the only safe agent, the one great specific, the only security against deadly disease and death. During these spring days like these how he keeps well under all circumstances. He says:

"People have often asked me how I managed to keep so well, for although out in nearly all kinds of weather and traveling considerably, I have no aches or sickness. My one answer has been that instead of waiting until I am sick in bed and forced to stop work for weeks, whenever I feel out-of-sorts the least bit, I take Paine's Celery Compound, which keeps me strong and well."

It is a great deal better in my opinion to take a medicine that keeps one well rather than to wait for sickness, and then hunt around for a medicine or a doctor to cure the sickness. I have been a hearty advocate of Paine's Celery Compound since it was first made, a great many years ago, and have yet to hear of a case in which it fails to fulfill its promises."

BABY SAVED FROM JAIL.

MRS. MABEL IVINS, CONVICTED OF COUNTERFEITING, RELEASED.

NO PROVISION FOR CHILD.
 Parent Had Been Sentenced to Serve Three Months, but Infant's Age Freed Her.

Mrs. Mabel Ivins, convicted in the United States District Court of passing counterfeit money made by her husband, Ben Ivins, and his accomplices, was released Tuesday morning because of the tender age of her infant, for whom the court had been able to make no provision in the event of the mother's imprisonment.

The four other counterfeiters, including Mrs. Stella Davis, were given jail sentences and fines of $1 each. Mrs. Ivins was sentenced to serve three months in the Montgomery County jail, but the time which she had spent in jail while awaiting trial was allowed by the court to offset this term, and she was set free.

The wife of Arthur S. Burrell, who was sentenced to imprisonment for using the mails to defraud, became hysterical when her husband was sentenced, and was carried out of the courtroom.

Charles E. Davis, the leader of the counterfeiters, was sentenced to a fine of $1 and to be imprisoned seven years in the Missouri penitentiary.

FARMER'S SON IS HELD FOR MURDER

Charles Catman Charged With Killing Showman Reynolds.

SAYS THAT HE WAS ATTACKED. HE WAS PEERING INTO TENT WITH COMPANION.

Body of Acrobat Who Was Fatally Stabbed While Trying to Handle the Pair, Sent to Marion, Ill.

Charles Catman, son of Theodore Catman, a farmer living east of Creve Coeur lake, was held for homicide as the result of the verdict of a coroner's jury, rendered at Clayton Monday afternoon, declaring him responsible for the death of James Reynolds, who was fatally stabbed Sunday night.

The remains of Reynolds, who was an acrobat in a burlesque show at the lake, were forwarded Monday to Marion, Ill., the home of his father.

Catman and Henry Scheffing were identified as having been about the show tent Sunday night. The exact details of the affair were not fully developed by the coroner, as important witnesses, whose names had not been learned in time to subpoena them, were not present.

According to the testimony, Catman and Scheffing were peering into the edge of the tent at the show. Reynolds came out and ordered them to buy tickets or leave.

When the two, withdrawing a few feet, remained near the tent, two of the showmen, Sigaboy and Norris, came out of the tent armed. Reynolds also came out, but the witnesses stated that he was apparently unarmed.

Catman declared that he tried to run away, but was knocked down and beaten about the head. It was at this time, the showmen say, that Reynolds was stabbed. Catman says that he went to his home and remained there until he heard of the death of Reynolds. Then he surrendered himself to the sheriff at Clayton.

W. H. Barnes, proprietor of the show, was the only witness at the inquest, aside from Catman and Scheffing and the two companions of Reynolds.

BOY OF 14 PUT AN END TO HIS LIFE

DEATH WAS MADE CERTAIN WITH SHOTGUN AND CANE.

TORTURED BY RHEUMATISM.

Invalid Neighbor Who Ended Sufferings Was Imitated by Charles Middleton.

To end suffering unnatural to boyhood and seemingly unbearable, Charles Middleton, aged 14, of Marine, Ill., blew off the top of his head with a shotgun Monday. Rheumatism had caused the boy the most intense pain for months past. The idea of suicide was suggested to him. It is believed by a like act of E. M. Eaton, a deputy United States marshal, and a neighbor of the Middleton family, who shot himself in the mouth to end his sufferings from kidney trouble.

The boy took the greatest care to make his attempt successful. He placed the muzzle of the shotgun in his mouth and held the gun in position with one hand while with the other he pressed a cane against the trigger.

Mrs. Middleton says that the boy's only reason for wishing to end his life was the suffering which he had undergone from rheumatism, and that the suicide of Eaton, which occurred two weeks ago, had given the boy the suggestion of his act.

The boy's mother heard the report of the gun and found the boy of the boy with the head wrecked by the explosion.

The Columbia Bill this week, notable among them being Favor and Sinclair in a new sketch entitled "Cesar's Angel." Lenore and St. Clair were seen as the duke and the duchess. Others who helped entertain are Mitchell and Love, conversational comedians, Armstrong and Cressedy, sketch artists; W. J. Mills in his new specialty; J. H. Cullen, piano singer and monologist; Martinette and Sutherland in "Shack Holmes, Jr.," the Six Blackbirds and A. O. Duncan, the ventriloquist.

The first presentation of "John Carver," the new drama by Mr. Black, will not be given until May 28, instead of May 22, as at first announced. Mr. Lindley decided that more preparation was necessary in the way of special scenery.

The introduction of reserved seats in Col. Hopkins' pavilion at Forest Park High-Bush proves a good move. While the number of these seats is not large enough to satisfy the desire of everybody, over half the center seats can be still had for a modest quarter-price, so that their reserved seats down town and save the crush. The down town office is at the Chicago & Alton Railroad office, Sixth and Olive streets.

AN ACTUAL OVATION. Special to the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, May 20.—Every person in the fashionable first big playhouse, where crowded the Garrick Theater last evening regretted the all-too-brief presentation of the time-worn, but always popular play, "The Lady of Lyons," with Mary Manning and Kyrle Bell, in to have a New York eight performance. Rarely has an enthusiastic reception been given to a play in this city. It has been seen during the present season of remarkably successful plays, but the house fairly rose, half a dozen curtain calls, after each of the five acts and a second and again after the third and fourth. With the final curtain came round after round of applause, followed by cries of "speech," until the happy principals and, at last, all the company, had to stand up and bow themselves tired.

But there was no speech. Mr. Bellows, who had followed by cries of "speech," until the happy principals and, at last, all the company, had to stand up and bow themselves tired.
